Prov. Boys Secretary Praises Local Groups

Reg. Rose, provincial boys' work secretary was in town Tuesday looking over the group work situation here.

He reports that the boys work movement all over the province is in a very healthy state and that quite a goodly number of new Trail Ranger and Tuxis groups are being started this fall. He also stated that more interest is being taken in this branch of the Church's work by men of the different cities and towns than was ever taken before. They realize that Christian character-building for boys is very worthy of their attention.

While here, Reg. had interviews with the Rev. A. J. Mitchell, Mr. H. W. Chambers and Dr. Clarke, all of whom are very interested in the boys of the town.

In the evening he met a group of Tuxis and Trail Ranger boys and the respective leadership of Jack Boorman and Ormond Philipsson, and considered that the boys were as fine a group as any he had come in contact with.

During his visit plans were made for a boys conference to be held at Didsbury, Thursday, November 17. Boys and leaders from the neighboring towns of Bowden, Olds, Carstairs and possibly Crossfield and Innisfail will be invited to take part. This will be the first conference of its kind to be held in Didsbury, at any rate for a great many years, and we feel sure that it will mean much to the "boy life" of the towns represented.

Will Not Pay Wheat Bonus

The Dominion is not in a position to pay a wheat bonus this year the Premier told the house of commons Tuesday.

"The government is not in a financial position to pay the bonus on wheat in 1933," said the prime minister.

His statement was in answer to a question put by Arthur L. Beaupre, Liberal, Provocuer.

The Dominion government paid a bonus of 5 cents a bushel for all 1931 crop delivered to elevators. Originally the date of delivery was given up to June 15, but on further advice the government decided to extend the time of delivery to June 30 of this year.

Man Sentenced To Six Months

Berger Hagstrom, a Swede, was brought before Magistrate Peattie at Olds on Tuesday, charged with assault and intent to do grievous bodily harm to Rudolf Glouresen near Minaret early in the morning of October 16th.

It appears that the two men had been working in the harvest, met at Innisfail and decided to travel together. They walked to Minaret and camped there for the night. During the night Hagstrom attacked Glouresen with a rock and stole $4.00, which the latter had in his pocket. Glouresen was brought to the Didsbury Hospital for treatment.

Hagstrom was sentenced to six months with hard labor in Lethbridge jail.

Mrs. Chas. Deadrick, who has been taking treatment in the Calgary General Hospital, returned home Monday in a much improved state of health.

The Price Of Wheat.

Saskatchewan is the great wheat growing province of Canada. In normal years it produces more wheat than any state in the United States, and more than one-half of all the wheat grown in Canada, and Canada is one of the great wheat exporting countries of the world. Wheat is not only the primary industry of Saskatchewan, as it is a somewhat lesser extent of Manitoba and Alberta; it is its very life blood upon which the existence of all other business and industry depends. It is, therefore, a vitally serious matter when the price the farmer can obtain for his wheat drops below the cost of producing it, and today yields him on these prairies only some 30 cent cents a bushel. Why is this?

Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, Premier of Saskatchewan, recently stated he could see but little hope for any great improvement in the price in view of the great surpluses and in view of the fact that Germany, France, Italy and even Japan were growing sufficient for their own needs. He expressed the belief that the only remedy lay in a conference of leading wheat-growing countries of the world to arrange curtailment of production.

Mr. James G. Gardiner, leader of the opposition in the Saskatchewan Legislature, in speeches delivered by him, outlined the reason why these European countries, which formerly were large importers of Canada's wheat, are now producing sufficient for their own needs. He has pointed out that it is not because it is economically profitable for them to do so quite the reverse is true. France today is devoting lands to the growing of wheat which formerly grew grapes to be made into wine, and which if still devoted to vineyards would yield larger profits. Germany likewise is devoting large acreages to wheat growing that could be and formerly were put to much more profitable purposes. The same is true of Italy, Spain, and other European countries. And the question persists: Why?

The reason is: Fear. And it is the only reason. The nations of Europe are still suspicious of each other; each convinced that others have designs upon them and only await a favorable opportunity to wage war upon them. The world could disarm tomorrow if it were not for the prevailing fear in the minds not of statesmen alone but of all the people of Europe. They expect another war and are preparing for it; hence they will not disarm, but are strengthening their positions in every way they can.

And when war comes, as they are convinced it will come sooner or later, the resulting power of any country will depend upon the degree to which it can feed its own people. Germany learned that great lesson in 1914-18. The people of France can live without grapes and wine, but not without bread, as former vineyards are now given over to growing wheat and other grains. In Germany centuries-old forests have become wheat fields and the production of less essential things have been discontinued for wheat growing; Russia is putting forth almost super-human efforts to raise enormous quantities of wheat to sell abroad in order that it may buy back machinery, electrical equipment, chemicals, minerals of all kinds, and thus create enormous industries which can, when required, be converted into munition plants. The men on the large state farms in Russia who are operating farm tractors are, at the same time, being taught the mechanism of tanks for war purposes as they will be trained and ready to switch from the tractor to the tank. The same thing in varying degrees is taking place in all continental European countries.

It is all a price exacted by "Fear," and the nations are prepared to pay the price of heavy losses sustained by the conversion of lands to wheat growing which could much more profitably be utilized for other purposes. As a result Europe is growing ready to import quantities of wheat, and the prairie provinces of Canada, whose primary business is wheat, find the old markets upon which they relied closed to them, and themselves in the position of being unable to sell at a price which will cover the cost of production, let alone yield a profit.

The Canadian people themselves cannot change this condition; it cannot be done by moving our Customs tariff up or down; or by inflation of currency; or by nationalization of lands, nationalization of industry, writing off of debts and interest charges, because, in the end, the farmer was freed of all that today he would be again acting into debt again tomorrow if he went on producing wheat which he could not sell except at a price below what it had cost him to produce.

The main cause of our financial and economic difficulties in Western Canada today is the fundamental one—"Fear." If that fear could be dissipated and confidence re-established, European countries would discontinue non-profitable wheat growing and go back to the production of those things which would yield them more substantial returns. They would again buy wheat instead of raising it, and would be able to pay a good price for it out of the profits derived from the production and sale of those things they can produce, and formerly did produce, to better advantage than other countries.

What can Canadians do in the matter? Only this: Resist every tendency to the direction of a narrow nationalism, and encourage a broad internationalism, because extreme nationalistic feelings and suspicions on the part of one nation develop fear, and a like feeling in all other nations. Every time a moral or religious precept is emphasized, fear is raised in the minds of some. Whenever one nation seeks to advance its own interests at the expense of another nation, suspicions are aroused and fear grows. One reacts upon another, and suspicion, antagonisms and fear grow like mushrooms in the dark.

The world is paying an awful price because it is filled with "Fear." Let us help both nationally and in our daily individual thought and actions to dispel it.

Task For Scotland Yard

British Police Trying To Discover Agents Of Drug Ring

Six women prominent in British society, wealthy, glamorous, and splendidly gowned, are being watched day and night by Scotland Yard as the alleged chief agents of a drug ring supplying Mafair with thousands of dollars' worth of narcotics.

So far the women have thwarted efforts of the police to get the conclusive evidence demanded by the English courts.

The six women entertain and move freely in the titled circles of London's west end.

Hansen Swaffer, noted dramatic critic and London columnist, claims to have been at several Mafair parties where a secret traffic in narcotics was taking place. "There is a drug racket which spreads from the heart of Piccadilly through the great boulevards of Paris and right across Europe into Asia," he wrote recently.

Turkey is said to be the chief source of the narcotics, which are brought across the Syrian desert to the small port of El Kantara, on the Suez Canal.

NOT A PAIN AT 78

She Feels Like 48

Aches and pains are not inevitable in old age. When they do come, there is always a cause for them—a cause that can be overcome. Here is a little lesson on growing old, by a woman 78 years old.

"For the last five years I have taken Kruschen Salts and I tell you truthfully I could not live without them. I am 78 years old. I have not a pain in my body, and I feel as young as I did at 48. I give the credit to Kruschen Salts. No one will believe my age."—(Mrs.) C. M.

Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect the vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they start the healthy Kruschen habit. Then, probably for the first time in their lives, they start getting rid every day of all waste matter from their systems. And almost immediately they feel their youth has returned; they feel energetic and happy. In a word, they feel that famous "Kruschen Feeling."

A compact volume, containing all the building laws of the city of Montreal, will be issued shortly. The book, first mooted in 1896, drafted in 1910 and to see the light of day 22 years later, is said to be a first step towards a drastic town planning programme. S. Fortin, city expert, has devoted his last year to compilation of the manual.

Record Hard To Equal

Newspaper Correspondent Wrote Out Long Speech From Memory

Discussing newsmen with prodigious memories W. Orton Tewson, the English writer who lives in New York and writes a column of anecdotes, says that Stephen de Blowitz, famed Paris correspondent of The London Times in the seventies, broke all records. According to the story J. T. Delane, editor of the Times, had been visiting Paris and with de Blowitz heard the French Minister of Foreign Affairs deliver a long and important speech in the Chamber. There were no arrangements for reporting such matters in those days. Delane remarked to de Blowitz, as he was taking a train for London: "If we could have that speech from end to end in tomorrow morning's paper, what a glorious thing it would be." After his brief departure de Blowitz resumed he could remember the speech, word for word. He wrote it out and cabled it, and Delane found it in the columns of the Times when he reached London. It was an accurate report.

Find Ocean Tides Disturb Crust For Six Miles Inland

Fresh evidence that scientific investigation again has taken a perpendicular course comes with the announcement by two men in California that the push and the pull of ocean tides disturb the earth's crust for a distance of six miles inland. Recently scientific interest turned to the stratosphere, with the ascent of Professor Piccard, now it is directed toward the interior of the earth. Since the discovery in California was more or less accidental, being made in connection with other experiments, further observations will be required to reveal its full import. These will be made next winter.

Great Britain Is Only Country In The World To Take Her Tariff Out Of Politics

Unlike every other country in the world Great Britain has taken her tariff out of politics. Day by day, the "Advisory Committee of Tariffs" in session under the chairmanship of Sir George May, the well known business man whose economy report a year ago was the cause of the crisis which set up the National Government.

With him sit the other two members of the committee, Sir Sidney Chapman and Sir George Povey. They perform a function usually assumed by a government itself, report independently to the government and are now engaged in building a tariff in a way tariffs have never been before.

The committee has full power to investigate any tariff already in existence. One of their first acts was to reduce the import duties on certain woolen schedules from 40 to 10 per cent. They issued this order overnight, and it was promptly implemented by the government.

The procedure is for it to conduct its inquiry in whatever way suits it best. It may hear pleas from industry. It may investigate without prompting. It may call witnesses to produce whatever information it desires. It ends by issuing a report to the British treasury. On receipt of this report it is published without undue delay. It then rests with the government whether or not to implement that recommendation. The government may refuse to act. But the government has denied itself the power to pass higher duties than those recommended by the committee. It may, on the other hand, pass lower duties.

If any industry feels the duty recommended is too low, the government refuses to hear the case. The industry must appear again before the committee and prove its point.

No one may appear before the committee. That is, representatives of the public at large have not the right. Any industry may appear, or any merchant or dealer in any commodity. It is hoped, in this way, that the consumers will receive attention from the committee. In the case of British industry, the pressure of exporting interests are so strong that demands from industrialists for more and more protection are at once countered by the expert traders, who appear before the committee to show proof that if the duties are raised, their ability to compete in the world market will vanish.

For this reason, the committee's functions have, since it was set last, been largely that of a court of conciliation where conflicting claims are fought out and a balance struck.

So pleased is the government with the functioning of the board that the British delegation at the Imperial Conference pressed hard for the establishment in every dominion of a similar tariff board. On the proper functioning of these boards, the British delegation pinned their faith for the implementing of the agreement calling for the institution of competitive tariffs throughout the British Empire, e.g. tariffs fixed at a level at which efficient industry would be protected from unfair competition from outside.

Business Pays Debts

Creates Necessary Relationship Between Debtor and Creditor

No debts are ever paid except by selling, healthy debtors, and no force known to human technique can make a one-sided bargain sound. It is the very basis of capitalist enterprise that the debtor's interest must coincide with the creditor's; that the debtor must also benefit by the debt he owes to his creditor. Otherwise the capitalist loses his money. When debts are artificially created by politicians of one country who simply demand large payments from the politicians of another country to pay for such trumped up absurdities as wars, of course the thing ends in suicide. Business, not politics, is the only motive that can create the necessary relationship between debtor and creditor.

A satin crepe is stunning for to fashion it.

You can also use rough crepe silk, which is extremely voguish. Wool crepe would also prove a charming medium.

Canada Stands Third In Silver Production

And British Columbia Is Now Leading All Provinces

The Canadian silver production in 1931 was approximately 20 1/2 million ounces, or 10 1/2 per cent of the world's computed production of 196 million ounces. Canada has for many years ranked third amongst the silver-producing countries of the world, being exceeded by Mexico and the United States, the former contributing about 42 per cent and the latter about 22 per cent annually to the world's total production.

The silver mines of Cobalt and adjoining areas in Northern Ontario were for many years the principal sources of the Canadian production, but their output in recent years has shown a gradual decline.

Important contributions to Canada's silver production are now being made by mines in the Noranda district of the Province of Quebec and in the Flin Flin district of the Province of Manitoba. The Yukon Territory has for several years been producing annually about four million ounces of silver, derived from the argentiferous lead ores of the Mayo district.

British Columbia is now the leading silver producing province in the Dominion, having contributed about 39 per cent of the total production in 1931. The silver is obtained mainly as a by-product in the treatment of the lead-zinc ores from the well-known mine at Kimberley.

Two Dozen For One

Farmer Found Others Had Lost Fall In Well

G. F. Warford of Hancock, Maine, lost a pig in his well. He had been on this farm only since the "back to the country" movement started, and he needed that pig. He started to grapple for it. The first try he hooked a pig, but it wasn't the one he lost, so he tried again, and twenty-four times he tried and each time he brought up a pig that he had never seen before and the last try brought him up the pig he had lost. Twenty of the pigs were better than the original one he fished for.

Funny Or Agricultural

The Empire Marketing Board tells us that "Of the 250 million pigs in the world only 12 per cent are Empire pigs. The Empire has, however, more than a third of the goats." It is difficult to know whether the Board is being funny or agricultural, says the Winnipeg Free Press.

Hon. Herbert Marler Sees A Big Potential Market In The Orient For Canadian Wheat

Canada Produces Prize Celery

Dominion Product Ranks First Among Nations Of World

Everyone knows that Canadian hard wheat sets the standard by which all other wheats are judged. Few realize that as a producer of prize celery, Canada also ranks first among the nations of the world, states the Market Intelligence Service of the Dominion Fruit Branch.

Proof of the superior quality of Canadian grown celery is found in every grocery or fruit and vegetable store. Fresh young stalks, straight from the celery-growing areas of the Dominion, are reaching the market in quantity and although the quality is exceptional, prices are very reasonable.

In choosing her celery, the housewife would do well to keep the following facts in mind. Always look for stalks that are well bleached, with a good solid heart foundation. Stems should be succulent and snap readily when bent. Avoid stems that are flat and thin, as they are often stringy. Celery that is green and poorly bleached usually lacks flavor. Stalks that are badly split at the base should never be purchased.

With Canadian celery so plentiful, this delightful vegetable should have an important place in the diet of every household. It provides an excellent appetizer and side dish and because of its mineral content is ideal for purifying the blood and lending general tone to the whole system. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Photos Of Submerged City

Remains Can Be Seen Beneath Level Of Sea

Photographs are being taken of the submerged city of Jamestown, once the capital of Nevis, an island in the West Indies. The remains of the city may be seen near the shore, beneath the level of the sea. Jamestown was visited by an earthquake on April 26, 1689, and the town slipped into the sea, carrying with it all its riches and a population estimated at 14,000.

School Children Help

The emergency conservation committee of the Toronto Local Council of Women is richer by 4,000 bottles of preserved produce presented by school children of the city. The children did much of the preserving themselves in the domestic science centres of their schools.

Lack of initiative to look for foreign markets for their products by Canadian wheat growers and millers, in particular, is deplored by Hon. Herbert Marler, Minister for Canada in Japan.

"In my opinion the grain growers should have an expert stationed at Shanghai all the time to investigate the possibilities of selling Canadian grain," declared Mr. Marler. "Ten years ago China imported 33,000 tons of wheat, a few years later she imported 377,000 tons, and the amount in succeeding years varied, but in 1931, China imported the stupendous amount of 1,500,000 tons. In the first four months of this year she imported 600,000 tons of wheat."

"The percentage of Canadian wheat imported by Japan and China has been steadily diminishing instead of the percentage remaining stable or going up."

Investigation should be made by grain growers and millers as to the possibility of selling far more of our grain and flour to China.

"When we secure our place in those markets," said Mr. Marler, "we must see that a steady supply of the products is sent out or we cannot hope to have stable markets in the Orient or anywhere else."

"The minister of trade and commerce, Hon. Harry Stevens, has done and is doing all in his power to assist the export trade of Canada," declared the minister.

"In addition to markets for our wheat and flour there are vast opportunities in the way of our paper products in the Orient, as well as canned milk, apples and such like," said Mr. Marler. "But all these require investigation because the market of the Orient is a competitive market and will not come to Canada, but Canada must go after it."

Word Now Recognized

"Appendicitis" Omitted From First Volume Of Oxford Dictionary

In the course of his Balliol College lecture dealing with "The surgical revolution," Sir Humphry Rolleston said:

"The word 'appendicitis,' much criticized as a barbarous hybrid of Latin and Greek termination, was constructed by R. H. Fitz of Boston, Mass., in 1886. It does not appear in the first volume of the Oxford Dictionary, the editor, Sir James A. Murray, said that when that volume of the dictionary was in course of preparation (1888) he consulted a regius professor of medicine, and was informed that it was not necessary to include it, as the disease was very rare."

"Although it had been described many years before, by James Parkinson in 1812, by John Burne in 1826, by Thomas Hodgkin in the same year, and by Thomas Addison in 1829, appendicitis was not generally recognized until influenza reappeared in this country in 1880; it was then called perityphlitis, a term dating from 1843, and entered in a subsequent volume (1903) of the Oxford Dictionary with a reference to appendicitis."

"Saving" The Country.

The Canadian Government's trade commissioner at Melbourne wrote at the middle of September:

"During the last half of August and so far in September there has been quite a brisk demand for Australian wheat at enhanced prices, especially for the United Kingdom. . . . With the rise in prices, growers have been selling their stored crop very freely, in many cases obtaining 3s net per bushel at country railway stations plus the government bounty of 4 1/2-2d (Australian money)."

Australia is off the gold standard. Because it accepts the British pound at face value, it was able to undersell Canada and clear off the bulk of its crop by the end of the shipping season, while Canada had a carry-over of 130,000,000 bushels.

In the following weeks, when demand stiffened, the Australian growers cleaned out the bottom of their bins and sold the remainder of their wheat at 75 cents per bushel plus 9 cents Government bounty, a total net price of 84 cents.

That is the sort of thing Canada is being "saved from" by adhering to the gold standard. The wheat grower is likely to think he could do with a little less than that particular brand of salvation than he's getting.

Still Need Things.

On every hand the statement is made that the world has produced far beyond its capacity to consume. In rebuttal there is the inevitable introduction of starving China and other under-privileged countries.

But there also seems to be good argument in the statistics dealing with labor-saving facilities in the rural homes of Alberta. It is quite unnecessary to go outside Canada to realize that this country has a long way to go yet before all its people are provided with very ordinary comforts. The saturation point is very far away and all that is lacking is that reasonable wage for the masses which would bring a better buying power.

As an instance, a great proportion of the rural housewives of Alberta are still struggling along with only primitive equipment. . . . Doubtless, many urban homes are similarly deficient in the commonplace luxuries. These cannot be classed as luxuries, but are the reasonable rights of everyone, available at no great cost and adding to the general health, happiness and enjoyment of life.

Only 1 home in every 46 in rural Alberta has water piped to the kitchen. This surely cannot bear the stigma of luxury. . . . Water connection in the busy kitchen is a necessity on every farm. Only 4 farm in 41 has power machinery to ease the burdens of washing, ironing, cleaning, etc. There is a market capable of indefinite absorption, if only there was an adequate farm revenue. Though so many farms are without these more necessary facilities, the radio has found a place in 1 rural home out of 6.

Alberta has spoken largely of its "standards of living." These standards in the mass could be much higher without ever reaching the reaching the luxury stage. At the present time the so-called "standards" are slipping badly. The majority of homes under the enforced economy of the past three years have made few or no replacements. There is a tremendous potential market for all manner of goods. The things that people still need are sufficient to employ a multitude in the making. Until the revenue from farm produce rises, there will continue to be under-consumption. This is the problem not only in starving China, but right here in Canada.

One might go on indefinitely, citing the various facilities which many homes lack, the mending work that might be done in improving roads and so on.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

William Clifford Clark, director of the course of commerce and administration at Queen's University, has been appointed deputy minister of finance. Official announcement of this effect was made recently by Premier R. B. Bennett.

High school teachers of the Calgary and Bassano, High River and Olds, inspectories will meet in Central United Church, Calgary, Wednesday and Thursday, November 9 and 10.
Addresses will be given by Rev. Dr.
George A. Dickson, and by Dr.
E. K. Broadus, of the University of Alberta.

Mr. Weir, minister of agriculture told the people of South Huron that in its first eighteen months of office the Bennett government had put $36,000,000 into the pockets of the farmers. Search your pockets, farmers, it must be there, says the Winnipeg Free Press.

The Acton Free Press suggests that all the vigorous protests being made against municipal spending constitute a smoke screen to cover up the enormous amounts being handed out by governments high up.
Quite possibly the guess of the Free Press is correct.

Canada's treaty with the United Kingdom will likely pass the first hurdle in its course through the Canadian parliament this week.
Members of the House of Commons have already spent a full week discussing Premier R. B. Bennett's motion to ratify the agreement and a vote may be taken in the course of a few days.

The internal loan which, to the amount of $80,000,000 is to be issued a week from Monday, is to consist of $25,000,000 of 3-year 4 1/2 bonds due in October 1935, and $55,000,000 of 4 per cent bonds in October 1937. The 3-year bonds will issue at 99.20, the interest yielding 1.28%, while the 20-year bonds at 93.45 and interest will yield 4.50%.
The former will be in denominations of $1,000 and the latter of $500 and $1,000.

The decision whether all Canadian shoat shipped to United Kingdom ports shall enjoy the benefit a bushel preference or only that going direct from Canadian ports, is a matter for the British government, it was stated by Hon. T. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce. He was of the opinion that the British government would not need any special legislation, but simply make an order defining what is to be considered Canadian wheat.

Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, set apart as a separate holiday this year, will provide the last opportunity before Christmas for a long week-end holiday, and for the convenience of their patrons who desire to visit friends in distant towns and cities, the Canadian railways have arranged special fares for the week-end. Return tickets will be on sale at the rate of one and-a-quarter times the regular one-way fare, good between stations in Canada, for the occasion.
The going portions of these tickets will be good from noon, Thursday, November 10 to noon, Sunday, Nov.
13, and the return portion will be good until midnight, Monday, Nov.

New freight rates on live stock with less minimum weight, to meet the competition of motor trucks in the transportation of cattle to market have been put into effect by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. Carrying movement from stations within a radius of 150 miles of Toronto, and these were effective from August 15. The new rates are being tried out as an experiment, and it is expected they will result in a very substantial increase in the rail movement of cattle, sheep, and hogs.

One of the most interesting pageants arriving in Montreal
by the Canadian Pacific Steamer Duchess of Richmond, on August 13 was "Miss England 1934", the world's fastest motor-boat. After the international race, with Gar-wood's boat at Detroit, Kaye Don will take "Miss England III" to Toronto, where visitors at the Canadian National Exhibition will be able to see an attempt by the powerful vessel to lower her own time on the world's record.
The M4 speed boat was accompanied in the Duchess of Richchanic, and "mate" to Kaye Don during the race.

to leave Montreal September 3 and return there September 19.

Mixed Sensations

In Parachute Jump

Leaving Plane Is Big Thrill Says Pilot Instructor

Leaving a parachute for a parachute jump is the big thrill according to R. J. Groom, pilot instructor at Regina's airport, who has made his first jump.

"There is a moment or two of confused sensations, a dizziness of whirling earth and sky and you feel you are being shaken up in a big bag."

"Then suddenly all is quiet, a quiet that seems supernatural. There is no racket. To one used to flying it is an eerie sensation to be up there with no wings, no engine, no wind rushing past and no apparent movement."

After landing Mr. Groom says one has a great feeling of confidence and affection for the parachute that aided the descent.

Honorable Artillery Company Dates Back Officially To 1537

The Honorable Artillery Company, which is brigaded with the Guards and has a Guards adjutant and R.R.M. is a Territorial corps d'élite, though you might not have guessed it from mere outward appearances. If you had run up against them at Wipers in 1916. Though placed now only fourth on the parade order of the British Army, the H.A.C. dates back officially to Henry VIII's charter in 1537, and can quite fairly claim, through descent from London's famous trained bands, an older ancestry still. For this reason all H.A.C. troops hold that the Royal Scots, known as Pontius Pilate's bodyguard and officially the oldest regiment in the British Army, are mere babes and military sucklings compared with themselves. Full privates pay a guinea a year for the privilege of marching with the H.A.C.

When I found they were made by the makers of Diamond Dye, I knew that that was something I would dare to use on my precious scarf. You see I had dyed all my morning clothes with Diamond Dyes and knew they were wonderful. I got a package of Diamond Tint, dipped my scarf and it came out as gorgeously colorful as a sunset! My drugist says repeated washings will not fade it. My friends were so delighted as I wanted to know what I used. Indeed, I'm enthusiastic about Diamond Tint!"

U.S. State Department Issues Useful Pamphlet

Contains Location and Proper Spelling Of Foreign Places

A pamphlet designed to teach Americans how to spell the names of foreign cities and countries correctly has been issued by the state department.

Compiled by the United States Geographic Board, the report gives the proper spellings, location and brief additional information relating to nearly 2,500 of the more important names of foreign countries, cities, provinces, rivers and other natural features.

It states the proper way to spell Tokyo is Tokyo and not Tokio, that Yugoslavia, not Jugoslavia, is the correct English spelling of the name of that Balkan country, and that the word Capetown should be joined together and not spelled Cape Town.

Vital Statistics

Saskatchewan Had Lowest Maternity Mortality In Canada In 1931

The preliminary annual report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for the year 1931 has now been compiled and has come to hand. Concerning upon the information contained therein regarding the Province of Saskatchewan, Honourable F. D. Munroe, M.P., Minister of Public Health, stated as follows:

"The outstanding feature contained in the preliminary vital statistics report just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for the year 1931, insofar as this province is concerned, is that Saskatchewan, for the first time in its history, leads all Canada in lowest maternal mortality. The rate being 4.4 per 1,000 live births, as compared with 5.6 for the whole Dominion. In view of the fact that for many years Saskatchewan had the highest mortality rate in this regard in the Dominion, and taking into consideration also the general economic situation existing throughout the province, as well as the adverse conditions in the drought areas, this achievement is significant."

"In Saskatchewan in 1931 there were 93 maternal deaths. Of this number 69 occurred in hospitals. Of the 33 deaths which took place outside of hospitals, 31 were attended by physicians, so that only 2 out of 93 cases were without medical attention."

"While infant mortality for the year 1931 shows an improvement of three points over the previous year, this province still has the fourth highest infant mortality rate. The general rate for the Dominion is 84.8 per 1,000 live births, while for Saskatchewan it is 92.9."

"The general death rate for Saskatchewan is lower than in 1930, the rate being 6.6 per 1,000 of population, which is the lowest in the history of the province since 1915. The rate for the Dominion is 10.1."

"The number of deaths from tuberculosis shows a marked decrease over 1930, the rate having decreased from 46.1 per 100,000 of population in 1930 to 36.0 in 1931. The rate for the Dominion is 74.0."

"The cancer death rate in Saskatchewan for the year 1931 is 62.0 per 100,000 of population; this is an increase over the rate of 54.0 in 1930. The rate for the Dominion is 92.0. Saskatchewan has the second lowest death rate from cancer, Alberta being the lowest, with a rate of 60.9."

"This province shows an improvement in the death rate from diseases of the heart, the rate being 71.0 in 1931, as compared with 77.8 in 1930. Ontario has the highest rate, namely, 169, while the general death rate from heart diseases for the Dominion is 132."

"The number of deaths caused by automobile accidents last year was lower in Saskatchewan than in any other province, the rate being 5.0. Ontario had the highest rate, 17.0, and British Columbia took second place with a rate of 16.0."

"Of all the provinces of Canada Quebec had the greatest natural increase, namely, 17.1 per 1,000 population; Saskatchewan coming second with a rate of 16.5."

"The birth rate for the province of Saskatchewan indicates a decrease of 13 points in 1931 over 1930, the rate for 1931 being 23.1 per 1,000 population. The birth rate for the whole Dominion is 23.2, and Saskatchewan holds fourth highest place in this regard. The three Maritime provinces show an increase in the birth rate, that in all others it is lower than in the previous year."

"It will be seen, therefore, that in the nine different sections contained in the preliminary report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, which is regarded as the barometer of public health in Canada, Saskatchewan holds premier place in five; that is to say, she has—

- (a) The lowest general death rate.
 - (b) The lowest tuberculosis mortality.
 - (c) The lowest maternal mortality.
 - (d) The lowest death rate from diseases of the heart.
 - (e) The lowest death rate from automobile accidents.
- "In two sections this province holds second place, namely, in the natural increase rate, and in the cancer death rate. Saskatchewan takes fourth place in the birth rate and fifth in infant mortality."

In the Public Interest

Bonding Lawyers Handling Trust Funds Recommended By Labor Congress

One of the resolutions adopted by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, sponsored by a local union, recommends the imposition of a blanket bond on all lawyers and notaries handling trust funds. This is a matter which is of vital concern, not only to labor, but to all classes in the community. It is not necessary to refer to notorious breaches of trust perpetrated by people who had gained the full confidence of their clients. Such instances are, fortunately, known to all, if not from bitter personal experience, at least from reports in the press. The legal profession is an honorable one, but there are black sheep in every fold, and it is no reflection upon the honest to guard against the consequences of dishonest practices. The public interest comes first. Employers are careful to bond their employees placed in positions of financial responsibility; when the public employs an agent for financial transactions, the relationship is much the same. It is small comfort to an aggrieved party that the wrong-doer, if caught, will be made to suffer the penalty of the law. What the public wants is indemnification for loss. There is nothing humiliating in the principle, which is a businesslike way of dealing with a strictly business proposition—Hamilton Spectator.

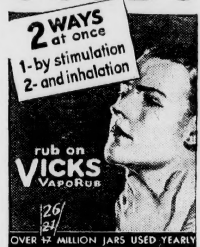

A country's woman's idea of a vacation, according to the Attention Globe, is to go to her married daughter's home and put up the fruit.

Once it was a joy ride when the horse felt his oats; now it is a joy ride when the driver feels his rye.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The Test

New Year's Eve found Jean sitting alone in Claire's special sanctum—the room which had witnessed that frightful scene when Sir Adrian had suddenly gone mad.

It was a cosy enough little room in winter-time. A cheery fire crackled in the open grate, while a heavy velvet curtain was drawn across the door that gave access to the terrace, effectually screening out the ubiquitous draught which invariably seeks entry through crack and hinge-panels. Claire was at the Dover House this evening, where a New Year's dinner-party was in progress, but Jean had no heart for festivities of any kind even had she not been precluded from taking part in them by reason of her father's death.

The grief and strain of the last four months had set their mark upon her. She was much thinner than formerly—her extreme slenderness accentuated by the clinging black of the dress she was wearing—while faint purple shadows lay beneath her eyes, giving her a look of frailty and fatigue.

She and Claire led a very sober and uneventful existence at Charnwood, the one absorbed in her quiet happiness, the other in her quiet grief. But the bond of their friendship had held true throughout the difficult or times which had fallen to the lot of each, and although for Jean there was inevitable additional pain involved in still remaining within the neighbourhood of Staple, it was counterbalanced by the comfort she drew from Claire's companionship.

Besides, as she reflected dispiritedly, where else had she to go? The Dover House would have been open to her, of course, at any time, but there she would be certain to encounter Blaise more frequently, and at her principal preoccupation had been to avoid such meeting whenever possible. And she could not face Blaise yet—alone! Some day, when Claire was married, she knew that she must brace herself to return there—to a house of dreams that would never come true now. But at present she shrank intolerably from the idea. She craved companionship—above all, the comforting, tender understanding which Claire, who had herself suffered, was so well able to give her.

The book that she had been reading earlier in the evening lay open on her knees, and her thoughts were with Claire now. She pictured her sitting next to Nick at dinner, her flowers like face radiant with unclouded happiness. At least her own sorrow had not yet taught her the grudging envy which cannot endure another's joy.

With a quickly repressed sigh, she turned again to her book. Its pages fluttered faintly, as though stirred by some passing current of air, and Jean, coming suddenly out of her reverie, was conscious of a cool draught waiting towards her from the direction of the terrace door.

Vaguely surprised, she glanced up, and a startled cry broke from her lips. The door was open, the folds of the curtain had been drawn aside, and in the aperture stood Blaise Tormarin.

Jean sprang up from her chair and stood staring at him with dilated eyes, one hand gripping the edge of the chimney-piece.

"Blaise! . . . You!" The words issued stammeringly from her lips.

"Yes," he returned shortly. "May I come in?"

Without waiting for an answer he closed the door behind him, letting the curtain fall back into its place, and crossed the room to her side.

Jean felt her heart contract as her eyes marked the changes wrought in him by the few weeks which had elapsed since she had seen him. His face was haggard as though from lack of sleep, and the lines on either side of the mouth were scored deep into the flesh. The mouth itself closed in a tense line of savage misery and the stark bitterness of his eyes filled her with grief and pity, knowing how uncomfortably she was to help or comfort him.

Distrusting her self-control, she shivered at the first conventional remark that suggested itself.

"I thought—I thought you and Nesta were both dining at the Dover House," she said confusedly.

"Nesta is there. I made an excuse. I came here instead."

Something in the curt, clipped sentences sounded a note of warning in her ears.

"But you ought not to have come here," she replied quickly—defensively—almost. "Why have you come, Blaise?"

"I came," he said slowly, "because I can't bear my life without you a day longer. Because—Oh, Jean! Jean! . . . Beloved! Do you need to ask me why I came?"

With a swift, irresistible movement he swept her up into his arms, holding her crushed against his breast. His mouth on hers, kissing her as a man kisses when love that has been long thwarted and denied at last bursts asunder the shackles which constrained it.

And Jean, starved for four months of the touch of the beloved arms, the pressure of the beloved lips on her own, and yielded to him almost before she was aware of his surrender.

Then the remembrance of the woman who stood between them rushed across her and she tore herself free from his embrace, white and trembling in every limb.

"Blaise! . . . Blaise! . . . What are you thinking of? Oh! We're mad!"

She covered her face with her shaking hands but he drew them away, gazing down at her with eyes that whistled.

"Yes, beloved, we're not mad," he cried triumphantly. "We're sane—sane at last. We were mad to think we could live apart, mad to dream we could starve love like ours. That was when we were mad! But we'll never be parted again, sweet!"

"Blaise!" she whispered, staring at him with horrified dilated eyes. "You don't know what you are saying! You're forgetting Nesta—your wife. Oh, go—go quickly! You must not stay here and talk like this to me!"

"No!" he returned. "I won't go, Jean. I've come to take you away with me! Once more his arms went round her. "Beloved, I can't live without you any longer. I've tried—and I can't do it. Jean, you'll come? You love me enough—enough to come away with me to the ends of the earth where we'll find happiness at last!"

She sought to free herself from his clasp, pressing with straining hands against his chest.

"No! No!" she cried breathlessly. "I can't go with you— you know I can't! Ah! Don't ask me, Blaise!"

There was an agony of supplication in her voice.

"But I do ask you. And if you love me"—his eyes holding hers—"you'll come, Jean."

"I do love you," she answered earnestly. "But it isn't the you I love asking me this, Blaise. It's some other man—a stranger—"

"If you love me, you'll come," he reiterated doggedly. "I can't live without you, Jean. I want you—oh, heart's beloved, if you know—"

And the burning, passionate words, the pent-up love and longings of months of separation and despair, came pouring from his lips—beseeching and demanding, wringing her heart, pulling at the love within her that ached to give him the answer which he craved.

"Oh, Blaise, dearest of all—hush! Hush!" She checked him brokenly with quivering lips. "I can't go with you. It wouldn't bring us happiness. Ah, listen to me, dear!" She came close to him and laid her hands imploringly on his arm, lifting her white, stricken face to his. "It would only spoil our love—to take it like that when we have no right to. It would smother and soil it, make it something different. I think—I think, in the end, Blaise, it would kill it."

"Nothing would ever kill my love for you," he exclaimed passionately. "Jean, little Jean, think of what our life together might be—the glory and beauty of it—just you and I in our House of Dreams!"

She caught her breath. Oh! Why did he make it so hard for her? With every fibre of her being yearning towards him she must refuse, deny him, drive him away from her.

"No, No!" she cried tremulously. "We could never reach our House of Dreams that way. Oh, I know it! At least, not the sort of House of Dreams that would be worth anything to you or me, Blaise. It would only be a sham, a make-believe. You can't build truth on a rotten foundation. . . ."

. . . Don't ask me any more, dear. It's so hard—so hard to keep on saying no when everything in me wants to say yes. But I must say it. And you . . . you must go back to Nesta."

Her voice almost failed her. She could feel her strength ebbing with every moment that she stayed beside her. She knew that she should be able to resist his pleading much longer. Her own heart was fighting against her—fighting on his side!

He saw her weakness and caught it eagerly.

"Do you know what you're asking?" he demanded hoarsely. "Do you know what you are sending me back to? Our life together. Nesta's and mine has been simple hell upon earth. I obeyed you, and I took her back. But I have done no good by it. She is as weak and worthless as the ever was. Our days are one continual round of bickering and quarrels—his face darkened. "And she is not satisfied! Her nominal position as my wife does not content her. Do you understand what that must mean if I go back?" He paused, his eyes bent steadily upon her. "Jean—very low—"

"now that you know—will you still send me back to Nesta? Or will you come with me and let us find our happiness together?"

He watched the warlike flood surge into her face and then retreat, leaving it a pallid white.

"Answer me!" he persisted, as she remained silent.

"Wait . . . wait a little . . ."

she muttered helplessly.

She turned away from him and, leaning her elbows on the chimney-piece, buried her face in her hands.

The supreme test had come at last. She realized now, that her renunciation—that renunciation which had cost her so much pain and bitterness—had been, after all, only something superficial and incomplete. She had not made the full sacrifice that duty and honour demanded of her. Though she had outwardly renounced her lover—bade him return to Nesta—she still held him hers by the utter faithfulness of his love for her. Nesta had had but the husk, the shell—a husband in name only, every hour of their life together an insult to her pride and womanhood.

The Oil Of Power. It is not claimed for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that it will remedy every ill, but its uses are so various that it may be looked upon as a general pain killer. Work Camps For Single Jobless Men

Work camps will be established in the national parks and probably elsewhere in the provinces, as means of absorbing the single unemployed men now congregating in the cities.

The Dominion government will bear all the cost of food, general maintenance and work clothing for the men, and all other administrative costs, including material, will be borne by the province.

Important details of the scheme have still to be worked out, including the extent to which work camps outside the cities can be established, and the extent to which mass feeding in the cities can be undertaken, as an alternative.

There was no agreement as to the Federal government taking over the care of all single unemployed.

Spanish Flavor In New Novarro Film

California and Spain have one thing in common—wild daisies.

In the outdoor scenes of "Call Of The Flesh," Ramon Novarro's new Metro Goldwyn-Mayer singing and talking picture being shown at the Opera House tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday, Chas. Brabin wanted the scene to have typically Spanish flowers. Wild daisies brought from the San Joaquin Valley were plati-cated after it was discovered that the same flowers grew wild about the suburbs of Seville, where the story is laid.

This new picture is the dramatic story of the rise to fame of a young Spanish opera singer and his romances.
 Novarro plays the singer and offers operatic airs on the screen for the first time in his career in the opera scenes. Ramon sings a number of original songs of a popular nature as well, composed by Herb. Stothard and Clifford Grey.

Dorothy Jordan plays the heroine in the new picture, and Renee Adoree, Ernest Torrence, Mathilde Comont, and Russell Hopton are in the cast.
